

Golfers finish sixth in Phoenix

By Craig Harris

The Oregon golf team made a 180-degree turn this weekend at the Sun Devil-Phoenix Thunderbird Collegiate, and it couldn't have come at a better time.

After a disastrous exhibition in their last tourney, the Ducks couldn't afford a repeat performance if they had any hopes of clinching an NCAA tournament invitation.

But thanks to the last day sub-par shooting of sophomores Steve Rintoul, Croy Cochran and senior George Daves, the Ducks tied Pacific-10 Conference powerhouse USC for sixth place.

More importantly is the fact that UCLA and San Jose State, teams that have been chasing the Ducks' all year, turned in seventh and eighth place finishes. The Bruins finished 16 strokes behind Oregon, while the Spartans fell by 22 strokes.

Rintoul led the Ducks with Saturday's three-under-par 69, and went on to post a three-day total of 218. Cochran was one-under Saturday at 71, finishing two strokes behind Rintoul with a total of 220. All-American candidate Daves turned in mediocre performances on the first two days, but his 71 on Saturday brought him home with a 221 total. Rob Huff and Tony Joyner shot a 222 and 223, and senior Paul Weinhold, who was only four strokes behind the division leaders on day one with his own one-under 71, ballooned to scores of 82 and 76 enroute to a 229 total.

By finishing ahead of UCLA and San Jose State, a national tournament bid to Winston-Salem, N.C. should be forthcoming for the Ducks. The only thing that could hinder that invitation would be a low performance in the Pac-10 Championships, which began today in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

That shouldn't happen though according to Oregon coach Scott Krieger, Krieger felt his squad should finish no lower than fourth and could possibly have an outside chance of winning the conference title.

"I think we have a good chance at the Pac-10s because the course is much like the ones that we play on up here," Krieger says.

He also predicted Arizona State University and USC to be the favorites, with Stanford, UCLA, and Oregon challenging for the third and fourth place spots. He picked Oregon State, Washington and Arizona being in the middle of the pack, and California and the Cougars of Washington State University winding up in the cellar.

The Pac-10 tournament will end Wednesday, and then Krieger and his troops will be waiting until Friday or Monday when official NCAA invitations will be issued.
