Kemp, Georgia reach settlement

ATLANTA (AP) —The state of Georgia paid Jan Kemp $1.08 million on Monday to avoid another trial of her allegations that she was fired by the University of Georgia for protesting preferential classroom treatment of athletes.

After an agreement was signed by lawyers for both sides and approved by U.S. District Judge Horace Ward, Kemp left the federal courthouse with a check from the state.

Under the agreement, Kemp will rejoin the Georgia faculty July 1 as co-coordinator of the English section of the Developmental Studies program.

A federal jury awarded Kemp $2.58 million on her claim that she was fired for protesting special treatment of athletes in the remedial Developmental Studies Program.

Ward later reduced the jury award to $680,000. Kemp could have forced a new trial on punitive damages by refusing the reduced amount, and negotiations for a settlement began.

Kemp received $79,681 to make up the wages she lost since her firing in 1983, $400,000 in punitive damages, $1 for loss of professional reputation and $601,318 for mental distress.

Her salary at Georgia is to be $30,356, an amount that includes raises she would have received since her firing.

Kemp sued two university officials for firing her after she protested preferential treatment of athletes. Named in the suit were Virginia Trotter, the school's vice president for academic affairs, and Leroy Ervin, associate vice president in charge of developmental studies.

The Oregon golf team stands in fourth place after the first round of the Pac-10 golf tournament in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

The first day of competition was marred by winds gusting up to 40 miles per hour. The Ducks are 15 strokes behind tournament leader USC, as they put together a 36-hole score of 794.

"It was the worst day of golf I've ever seen," Oregon coach Scott Krieger said. "It was a survival contest out there today, and our guys survived, I'm really proud of them."

The Ducks were led by Rob Huff who fired a 79 and a 77 for a 156 total. Huff stands in a tie for 11th place, while USC All-American Sam Randolph leads the tournament with a 147 total.

The tournament will conclude with single 18-hole rounds today and Wednesday.
