Ultimate team makes nationals

By Tim Moloney

Of the Emerald

SANTA BARBARA — Despite three difficult losses, the Oregon Club Sports ultimate frisbee team came away from the Western regional collegiate tournament held here Saturday and Sunday with what they wanted — a second consecutive berth to the national tournament, which will be held in St. Louis, Mo., on May 25-27.

Oregon captured second in the tournament, but things didn't start out so bright as the team found the going a bit rough in the preliminary rounds. Oregon posted a 2-2 record for the preliminary rounds, the best they could do on a very emotionally and physically draining day.

Both losses came in overtime matches. The opening round brought Oregon their first loss, a three-hour marathon won, 17-16, by nationally-ranked Stanford University, the eventual champions. It was a bitter pill for the team to swallow so early.

But they rebounded with victories over University of California-San Diego and UC-Davis. The final preliminary match was against the pool's top seed, the UC-Santa Barbara

The Oregon Club Sports ultimate frisbee team took second this weekend at the Western regional collegiate tournament, good enough to qualify them for the national tournament.

Black Tide, who proved earlier in the day their ranking was no fluke by thumping Stanford, 13-6. Oregon's game with the Black Tide finished in the quickly diminishing California daylight with the Tide squeaking out a 12-10 win. A ceiling of 12 was imposed earlier because of the waning daylight.

Tired and sore but, nonetheless, determined, Oregon opened second-day play with a 15-10 quarterfinal victory over Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo. This moved them into the semifinals against the Black Tide of UCSB with the winner going to the finals and onto to St. Louis for the nationals.

The wind became a major factor on the second day with gusts reaching 30 miles per hour. In both semifinal games, only three up-wind goals were scored, and Oregon had two of them. The goals gave the Ducks a 5-3 lead over UCSB, which they never relinquished. The teams traded down-wind goals to the end, and Oregon won 17-15.

The victory earned them an automatic national berth and put them into the championship game. The finals pitted the Ducks against Stanford, in a repeat of the previous year's regional final.

But, this year, Stanford took home the win, outlasting Oregon, 15-12, in a tight match.

It was a hard-fought, emotional weekend for Oregon but also extremely satisfying. They didn't successfully defend their Western regional title but have high hopes about bringing home the national title later this month.
