laugh-riot and allowed all the actors to play up the idiosyncratic personality aspects of stereotypical characters. The bubblegum popping cheerleader, played by Shari Duncan, the stud with a pack of cigarettes, rolled up in his T-shirt sleeve (John Duncan), the bumbling, horny doctor, (Scorby); and the luscious, blonde nurse, played by Maxine Walton, were all represented. Particularly funny was Ellen Rice as the tough-guy drill instructor barking out lines like "And what is the SECOND rule of comedy?"

Edison's Bar, recently gaining a reputation for comedy, is a great place to see a show like this. The brass, wood, and trophies lend a McKenzie Lodge motif that alone is worth the long trip through Springfield. It has a simple stage and lighting system that neither detracts nor adds pretention to the setting.

"Sex" continues every Friday and Saturday night this month. Showtime is 8:30 and tickets are $5.50 in advance, $6.50 at the door. Tickets are available at the Factory (4740 Main St., Springfield), and Everybody's Records.
