Laurels

Lori Baker, a sophomore pre-business administration major, has won a $1,000 E.F. Hutton and Co. Business Scholarship.

Lisa Patterson, a fourth-year architecture major, is the recipient of the 1986 Louis C. Rosenberg Traveling Scholarship. The $1,200 grant is based on academic background, faculty recommendation and statement of purpose.

Gary Caperna, an architect major, has received the Callison Partnership Award. The $1,000 award is given to the most promising graduating senior by the Callison Partnership, a Seattle architecture firm.

Claudia Gentzkow, a fourth-year interior architect major, has won a $500 award in the Du Pont "Ar:tron" Student Design Award competition. She won in the health-care category with a design for a pediatrics clinic.

Sum Ying Roxana Ho, a fourth-year architect student, and Cheryl Martin, a fifth-year architect student, were first and second-place runners-up, respectively, in the Institute of Business Designers Student Design competition.

Karen Johnson, research and development coordinator at the University's School of Architecture and Allied Arts, is the recipient of a 1986 Arts Management Fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts. Thomas Givon, professor of linguistics; Barbara Pickett, associate professor of fine and applied arts; and Ellen Seiter, assistant professor of telecommunication and film, have been awarded Fulbright grants to pursue research abroad. The grants are awarded on the basis of a national competition involving peer reviews.
