What solution would you propose for the parking problem

The parking problem is really bad, that's why I drive a motorcycle. Carpooling sounds like a good solution, but it's not going to solve anything. Eugene is not big enough to handle the influx of students, so we'll always have a problem.'

Jonathon Zook
Junior, journalism

I try not to drive to school because parking's so bad. It's not an easy problem because it takes money that the University doesn't have. The ideal thing would be to have more parking farther away.'

Greg Kerber
School of Journalism faculty member

I think there should be a measure taken like building a parking structure. Other possibilities include not overselling the parking permits so much. Maybe a percentage, but not just general overselling.'

Sylvia Shannon
Senior, political science and biology double-major

In Germany where I'm from, the students who live farther away carpool to the University. They change drivers maybe every week.'

Gudrun Burkhardt
graduate student, English

I think they need to build a multi-level parking structure. There needs to be some funding for it — maybe take money from the dome project over Autzen Stadium.'

Susan Bloom
Senior, marketing and management major
