

PATTY STOUT IS PURSUING A DEGREE IN SOCIOLOGY AND A COMMISSION IN THE ARMY WHILE ATTENDING THE U OF O.

Besides studying for her degree in Sociology, junior Patty Stout is also learning valuable skills through Army ROTC.

"I am enrolled in Army ROTC because my Dad encouraged me to. His main reason was there was no obligation for the freshman and sophomore years and there was a good chance of getting a scholarship. After my freshman year, I decided I enjoyed ROTC enough to attend Basic Camp at Fort Knox Kentucky, where I won a two year scholarship."

"I really enjoy ROTC. It does not take up a lot of time, and I have done things I would not normally do, like rappelling, orienteering, and attending Army Airborne School. I am also developing leadership and management skills that I probably would not get anywhere else."

"The most important thing I have gotten from ROTC is the ability to set goals and the discipline to achieve them. I take more pride in my school work and do better in my classes than ever before."

"When I consider all the skills, experience and confidence I am getting now; and the promise of much more when I get my officer's commission, I am really glad I joined ROTC. I now know I can achieve any goal I set for myself and I have a great future ahead of me because of it."
