

Ducks play in-state teams; try to clinch NCAA bid

With the NCAA tournament just around the corner, the Oregon volleyball team wraps up its regular season schedule this weekend with its final conference match and the Oregon Challenge Cup tournament.

The Ducks conclude their Pacific-10 Conference slate tonight in search of their first 20-win season since 1984 (27-12), when they travel to Corvallis for a Civil War volleyball tilt with Oregon State University at Gill Coliseum. Match time is 7:30 p.m.

Oregon cast a total team effort and easily disposed of the Beavers in the first round of conference play 15-4, 15-7, 15-6, holding OSU to a meager .009 hitting percentage.

"The match we played (earlier this season) was the first time Carol Sears (OSU's setter) had been switched to the 6-2 offense instead of the 5-1. Now she is only setting half the balls," Oregon coach Gerry Gregory said. "She's definitely their best hitter, and it (the offensive change) definitely gives the Beavers more of an offensive threat."

OSU is 7-21 on the season and 3-14 in conference action and trails in the all-time series with Oregon 38-12-1.

After concluding their Pac-10 schedule, the Ducks will face the University of Portland Saturday and either OSU or Portland State University on Sunday in the first-ever Oregon Challenge Cup tournament at PSU.

The Portland Pilots are 17-14 on the year and lost a four-game match to the Ducks earlier this season at McArthur Court, while PSU is 19-13, including a tough five-game loss in Eugene six weeks ago after leading two games to none.

The Ducks, 19-11 overall and 11-6 in the Pac-10, dropped in the national rankings after a split with the two Washington schools last weekend at home.

Oregon lost to the University of Washington for the second time this season and rebounded against Washington State University to maintain its fourth-place standing in the conference, although it slipped from its 14th spot on both national polls, to 17th (NCAA) and 16th (Tachikara/CVCA).

Ahead of the Ducks on the conference ladder are three top-ranked teams: UCLA (6th QR 9th), Stanford (10th/10th) and Arizona State University (12th/13th).

After this weekend's action, the Ducks will eagerly anticipate word from the NCAA tournament selection committee. The bid and site selections for the first round, which takes place Dec. 4-6, will be announced Nov. 30. Regional action will resume Dec. 11-13, with the Final Four scheduled for Dec. 19-21 in Stockton, Calif., at the University of the Pacific.

INTRODUCING
NEW HELSINKI FORMULA
SHAMPOO AND CONDITIONER

with vitamins as seen on the Cable Health Channel, Helsinki Formula helps promote new hair growth and reduces hair loss for both men and women. Contrary to what we once believed, the hair root does not always die off. Instead, it becomes clogged with sebum and cholesterol and cells at the base of the hair root no longer divide. When this happens, the hair that is lost is not replaced. Once the hair root is unclogged, the cells continue to divide and the hair root continues to be active again.

Helsinki Formula has an extraordinary success rate — it has been shown to be 80% effective. Some clients have shown new hair in 3-4 weeks. Helsinki Formula is absolutely safe and contains no drugs.

NOW AVAILABLE IN EUGENE. Helsinki Formula is much less expensive than any other product promoting new hair growth on the market today. For a three month supply of Helsinki Formula, Send $39.95 plus $2.40 to cover shipping to:
