Wrestlers place two in Vegas

Oregon's Shon Lewis and Chuck Kearney placed third and fifth, respectively, in the 37-team Las Vegas Invitational wrestling tournament Friday and Saturday at the Showboat Hotel.

Lewis and Kearney were the only two Ducks to advance to the semifinals after Friday's first day of competition, as Oregon went into the championship round in 14th place. The Ducks dropped to 15th after Saturday's action.

Lewis, wrestling in the 126-pound division, lost in the semifinals to Mark Clayton of the University of Wisconsin, 6-5, but came back to beat Purdue's Scott Hinkle by default in overtime and Chris Hanson of Utah State University, 7-2.

Kearney, a junior transfer at 177 pounds, lost in the semis to Steve Metzger, 7-6, in the final second of the match. He was called for stalling and then taken down at the buzzer. He lost to Wisconsin's Ralph Liegel, 4-3, but bounced back in his fifth-place match over Roy Yorke of the University of Michigan, 6-5.

Iowa State University claimed the team title with 162 3/4, while Oklahoma State University was a distant second with 133 3/4. The Ducks finished the tournament with 33 1/4 points.

Oregon women's cross country standout Penny Graves and Duck coach Tom Heinonen were honored by the Pacific-10 Conference on Friday.

Graves, a junior, was named Pac-10 Woman of the Year for her accomplishments this season. She was the Ducks' number-one runner all season and did not lose a race until the NCAA championships, where she placed 13th overall. Graves won the individual titles in both the Pac-10 meet and the Region-8 meet.

Heinonen, in his 12th year at the helm, was named Pac-10 Coach of the Year. He guided the Oregon women to the Pac-10 title and a third-place finish in the Region-8 meet enroute to a fourth-place showing in the NCAA championships.
