Oregon was starting to rally after Camp made an amazing behind-the-back save with the ball heading toward the scorer's table. On the return, the Cardinal made an attack error, and it looked as if the score would be 9-4. But a Stanford assistant coach pointed out that Camp had stepped over a boundary line that had supposedly been set before the game, and Oregon was slapped with a team control error and loss of possession.

The Cardinal then outscored the Ducks 6-1, getting the match winner on a Reno block.

"I'm very proud of this team. We had a great year. After being picked to finish seventh by the conference coaches, not one of them ever expected us to be playing 11th-ranked Stanford on our home court in the NCAA tournament... We have a limited offense, but we will be better next year." Gregory said.
