What do you think about the new financial aid qualifications for GSLs and independent status?

'I don't like the new guidelines because I won't qualify for financial aid until after I graduate this way. I think it's just too hard to qualify.'

— Laura Schleich, junior, biology

'I couldn't afford it. I have a lot of friends who live at home who can't afford to go to college, and their parents can't afford to send them.'

— Sue Arnold, junior, psychology

'They affect us... my wife wanted to go to college before we got married, and she couldn't because she was living at home.'

— Michael Arnold, junior, psychology

'It won't affect me, but I think it is a good idea because there's a lot of people who have been taking advantage of financial aid.'

— Steven Frey, senior, economics

'It's OK because it's really the parents' responsibility to provide for the student's education.'

— Brent Renison, freshman, Asian studies

'I'm over 24, and I was already independent, but if you consider it from the point of view of an 18- or 19-year-old... I guess it's a roundabout way of constricting money that a student really needs.'

— Keith Morrow, senior, linguistics
