Trojans control Taylor; Ducks lose third straight

By Capi Lynn

The University of Southern California basketball team put a damper on Oregon's scoring machine, Anthony Taylor, and strolled to a 60-56 Pacific-10 Conference victory Saturday at the Sports Arena in Los Angeles.

The Trojans held Taylor, the Ducks' primary offensive weapon, to just 12 points on five of 10 from the field with a tenacious double-team coverage.

The 6-foot-4 guard went into the game averaging 21.7 points an outing, having scored 20 or more in the last six games prior to the loss.

Oregon plummeted to 2-5 in the Pac-10 and 8-8 overall with its third straight loss, while USC, registering its first conference home victory, moved to 2-6 and 7-9.

While USC was busy concentrating on Taylor, Duck forward Jessie Nash scored a career-high 14 points, despite fouling out of the game.

Nash and teammate Keith

Balderston spent most of the game in foul trouble underneath the basket while trying to subdue Trojan forward Derrick Dowell, who poured in 20 points and grabbed eight rebounds.

Duck center Sven Meyer tossed in 16 points for the night, although he hit only three of 15 shots from the floor. Meyer also collected 11 rebounds.

Despite shooting a shivering 35 percent from the field in the first half, USC managed to take a 25-23 advantage into the locker room at the half.

The Trojans heated up in the second half to hit 58.3 percent of their shots as they built up
