HELP WANTED

THE SURVIVAL CENTER has four positions open for winter and spring terms. Work for stipend, work-study, and/or credit. Application deadline Fri, Jan 23 at 5pm. The Survival Center is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Assistant Director: helps the director deal with ASUO and other business. This is an opportunity to actively support the environmental movement while learning about the important issues of the day. Specific duties will vary with the experience of the applicants. Projects that you will be involved in include Earthweek, educational seminars, and making Survival Center information available to all interested students.

Media Coordinator: produces and distributes advance materials for educational and fundraising events. Graphic arts and/or marketing skills desirable.

STEWART Editor: produces a 12-16 page newspaper once each term covering current environmental concerns and events and Survival Center activities. Journalism and layout skills required. This could be a term project for a Journalism class.

Water Issues Coordinator: keeps abreast of current issues of water quality, water politics and govt policy and helps to plan educational programs for sharing relevant information with the University community. A choice of personal interests can be developed within this position, including environmental law, municipal water planning, wild rivers, or toxic waste in groundwater. All staff members are expected to attend weekly staff meetings and to contribute to the STEWARD. For more information or to pick up an application, come by the Survival Center in EMU Suite 1 or call 686-4356.
