to the friendly confines of McArthur Court Thursday night.

The Ducks played an aggressive, quick-paced 40 minutes of basketball to trounce the visiting University of Washington Huskies, 77-67, and halt a treacherous three-game losing streak.

Oregon extended its string of victories in Mac Court this season to six straight and improved to 3-5 in Pacific-10 Conference play (9-8 overall).

"We know we can win at home because our fans are always behind us," said senior captain Kenny Sprague. "We just have a lot more confidence when we're at home."

The Ducks showed that and more against the Huskies after suffering three disappointing defeats on the road last week, all of which they had opportunities to win.

Oregon started the game a little sluggish before exploding near the end of the first half to eventually take a 34-29 lead into the locker room at halftime.

The Ducks found themselves down 20-12 (Washington's biggest lead) after almost 10 minutes of action when the surge began. Rick Osborn hit a jumper from the baseline, Keith Balderston scored from short range and David Girley canned an 18-footer to bring Oregon within two, 20-18.

Washington converted a pair of freethrows to go up by four, but Balderston's three-point play pulled the Ducks within one, 22-21.

The Huskies pushed their lead back up to four again at the 2:49 mark with center Chris Welp's two free throws, the last points the visitors put on the board in the first half.

Oregon stormed out to take a two-point lead, 31-29, with the hot hand of Sprague, who scored six straight points for the Ducks. Balderston then capped off an exciting finale to the first half with a three-pointer from the baseline.

The Ducks maintained their momentum in the opening minutes of the second half, scoring the first seven points. The two teams then exchanged buckets before Oregon captured its largest lead of the night, 48-32, when Girley hit a three-point shot.
