What do you think about the State Board's decision to change state institutions to the semester system in 1990?

'I came from a school with the semester system. It makes some of the course loads a little tougher, and you do lose some of the variety, but I prefer the semesters.'

— Dale Gibbon, graduate student, athletic training

'I think it's good because it gives us more time to spend on a subject. You're more limited to the variety of courses, but the subjects you are taking are covered more thoroughly.'

— Cara Ruby, sophomore, international studies

'Personally, I feel it's a little unfair to students who are in school right now because they'll get caught in the credit transfer.'

— John Bouffler, senior, finance

'I'm all for it. You can teach more serious things, and the calendar is much more convenient.'

— Steven Forde, professor, political science

'It would screw up our clusters that we've had. Most classes you can take in clusters, and if you're interested in learning a subject in-depth, that's the way to go.'

— Jennifer Swan, sophomore, English literature
