The Golden Voice

When Curtis Salgado and The Stiletos recently opened for the Robert Cray Band at a sold out EMU Ballroom audience, the crowd called him back them back for two encores. But such an occurrence is not that rare. People have been calling Salgado back for a long time. Since his early years with Eugene's Nighthawks, through his days with The Robert Cray Band and In Yo Face, Salgado has always been the man local audiences could count on for world-class entertainment. His present band is no exception to the rule. The Stiletos, featuring ex-John Lee Hooker bassist John Mazzocco, former Johnny and the Distractions drummer Scott Frost, and Reggae Allstars guitarist Newel Briggs, bring the blues to the soul. Salgado and The Stiletos will appear at Taylor's at 9:30 p.m. January 29.

THE FAR SIDE

By GARY LARSON

"You know, Russell, you're a great torturer. I mean, you can make a man scream for mercy in nothing flat ... but boy, you sure can't make a good cup of coffee."
