What do you think President Reagan's role was in the Iran arms scandal?

'He was irresponsible. What I thought the most about is when he said he couldn't remember. I think most people would remember something that big.'

— Alisa Chadwell, senior, journalism

'I think people want straight answers, and I think that regardless of what he said in the past, he simply needs to make an apology to the people and not lose control. He needs to gain America's confidence again.'

— Ed Ayala, graduate student, landscape architecture

'I think he was definitely involved, and I think there was a lot of covering up. It is hard to believe the president would not know what was going on for so long. I also think there is too much effort going into trying to find out who to blame.'

— Eric Siow, international business

'I think there are two choices here: One is that he knew what was going on, in which case he has been lying about it; and the second is that he didn't know what was going on, in which case he was completely out of control.'

— Marcy Thompson, graduate student, mathematics
