U.S. adviser killed

EL PARAISO, El Salvador (AP) — Guerrillas raided a major army base before dawn Tuesday, killing at least 43 soldiers and a U.S. military adviser, the first to die during battle in the 7-year-old civil war.

El Salvador's military commander said the American, identified as Staff Sgt. Gregory A. Fronius, 27, of Greensburg, Pa., was killed by mortar fire near a command post.

According to U.S. policy, American advisers do not participate in offensive military action or enter areas where combat is occurring or likely, but may visit "carefully selected and secure sites" such as garrisons. They are armed and may respond if fired upon.

House overrides veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic-controlled House voted 350-73 Tuesday to override President Reagan's veto of an $88 billion highway and mass transit bill, sending the measure to the Senate for the final round of a bruising political struggle.

The margin was 68 votes more than the two-thirds needed to override the president's action on the bill, which couples more than 100 road projects made to order for individual lawmakers with a provision permitting the states to raise the speed limit to 65 miles per hour on most stretches of interstate highway.

Third Marine arrested

WASHINGTON (AP) — A third Marine guard has been arrested in a burgeoning sex-and-spy scandal in the ranks of the Marine Corps' security guard force at the U.S. embassy in Moscow, the Pentagon said Tuesday.

Staff Sgt. Robert Stanley Stuflebeam, 24, of Bloomington, Ill., was taken into custody on suspicion of failing to report contacts with Soviet women while working in Moscow from May 1985 to May 1986. He was arrested Sunday at Camp Pendleton, Calif. "Specifically, he is suspected of having associations with Soviet women on several occasions," Pentagon spokesman Robert Sims said.

Sims stressed that Stuflebeam had not been accused of espionage, as have two other former Moscow embassy guards.

Sterns win custody

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — A judge awarded custody of Baby M to her father Tuesday, stripped surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead of all parental rights and upheld the $10,000 contract under which she agreed to give up the child.

In the nation's first judicial ruling on a disputed surrogate contract, Bergen County Superior Court Judge Harvey R. Sorkow said the contract was valid because just as men have a constitutional right to sell their sperm, women can decide what to do with their wombs.

Immediately after William Stern won custody in the landmark case, his wife, Elizabeth, adopted the year-old baby, whom they call Melissa. The child has been in their care while the case was argued.

Senator blasts decision

SALEM (AP) — A state lawmaker says he'll keep pushing for a bill to ban surrogate motherhood contracts, despite a judge's ruling upholding such a contract in the highly publicized "Baby M" case.

"I think the court is wrong," Sen. Larry Hill said Tuesday after a judge in New Jersey stripped a surrogate mother of parental rights and upheld a $10,000 contract under which she gave up the child.

"I don't think you should be allowed to sell a baby," Hill said. "Adopt a baby, fine. Sell a baby, no."

The Springfield Democrat's bill to prohibit surrogate motherhood contracts is pending in the Senate Judiciary Committee and is expected to get a hearing soon, he said Tuesday.
