

Athletic Department adopts official polyester dress code

In a move expected by many, the University Athletic Department has adopted polyester as the official dress code of the department.

According to Athletic Director Bill Rugburn, the move was initiated by employees who tired of going out and buying cotton, wool and cloth garments while their closets were full of polyester.

A recent poll conducted by journalism Professor Jip Leper revealed 83 percent of Athletic Department employees consider polyester the most durable material made today. The poll also found 79 percent of the employees believe polyester best symbolizes the department itself.

Employees want to use their closetsful of durables

"You gotta understand that most members of the Athletic Department inner circle are in their mid- to late-40s and don't believe in that hippie dress," Rugburn said. "And since everybody in the inner circle likes polyester it's only natural that those below us, who don't make as much money as us, would want to dress like we do."

To those familiar with the Athletic Department, the move came as no surprise. One source, who wished to remain anonymous because it might jeopardize his employment, said polyester is a common sight in the Autzen Stadium pressbox during football season.

"I was up there last fall, and I couldn't believe what I saw," the source said.

"There among all the media types were about 10 members of the department all dressed in green and yellow polyester suits. The Ducks were losing as usual, and the sun was out, and these people didn't look uncomfortable at all, although they made sure no dip spilled on their polyester," he said.

Another source, who also wished to remain anonymous because she is the wife of an Athletic Department official, said Athletic Department people are easy to pick out at sporting events.

"When I go to a basketball game at Mac Court and try to find my husband, all I do is look into the crowd for those wearing polyester. No one else wears that stuff anymore," she said.

Rugburn said most employees shop at the local Big Man, Tall Woman store for their polyester. "One of the requirements of being employed at the Athletic Department is that you must be either a big man or a tall woman. And that particular store has great deals on polyester year round," he said.

A move is underway to ban the public from entering McArthur Court unless they're dressed in at least one piece of polyester clothing. Those without

MEETINGS

Society for the Prevention of Expectant Rich Mothers (SPERM) will meet today at noon to discuss the escalating fee scale charged by surrogate mothers. SPERM also will discuss adopting the motto, "Pay someone else to do it — why risk the waistline."

The Catholic caucus of the Right to Life Organization will discuss alternatives to those contraceptive methods prohibited by the Vatican. "Just Say No" will be the title presentation. The group will meet at 1 today at Our Lady of Perpetual Responsibility Church, 1000 Heaven's Door Way. BYO.

The Young Lawyer's Club will meet at 2 p.m. today to discuss a controversial new curricula titled B.I.L.S., short for Bullshit In the Legal System. This radical plan encourages attorneys to gain power, status and money through intimidation, misrepresentation and strategic social liason.

The Young Writer's Guild will have a meeting to discuss the preponderance of drug usage in the workplace. Immorald Snooze Idiot Milezof Rubbers will present a lecture titled, "Just Say When." The group will meet at 10 a.m. today at Max's.

The one-legged Lithuanians-of-Bohemian-Descend Accor-dian Player's organization will have a polka party Friday at 2 p.m. at WOW Hall. The group will discuss the role of special-interest groups. Admission is free.

College Conservatives will circulate a petition on campus this week that supports continued use of the University's 25-year-old registration system. The CC's recently altered their motto from "Change is Bad" to "Change is Dangerous."

LECTURES

A parenting seminar led by

Patrick O'Brien and Phyllis Steinberg will take place this week. The keynote address, "Behavior Modification through Fear and Guilt," will kick off the seminar at 6 a.m. Those who enter late will be forced to pay a late fine and, standing alone in front of the group, explain their tardiness.

Reinholdt Vertischmeckter, a doctoral candidate in philosophy, will present his thesis today at 6 p.m. on the dew-laden lawn in front of the EMU. Vertischmeckter's paper deals with the problems of epistemology and is titled, "Just Say Know."

MISCELLANEOUS

The University Chess Club will be showing game films from 8 a.m. to midnight today in the EMU Recreation Center. The last three moves of last year's championship bout will be reviewed from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

mean, after working with them (Geeks in the ASUO) for so many years, and now finally 'being part of the group.' I've found my niche," Sewer said. Sewer is the former ASUO executive coordinator.

Roscoe Cousteau, a former Constitution Court member who has a subscription to National Geographic, was the other ASUO appointee. He replaces Big And Dummond, co-idiotorial idiots noted especially for scathing USSA idiotorials.

"Gad, I'm glad Peach Fuzz is out. On behalf of Dave Dix, Project Save-her-hide, letter mis-quotes, Westmoreland family housing and Speedy the cement chicken — good riddance," Cousteau said.

"Besides, The Record wasn't cutting it as the ASUO rag so maybe we can do the same to the Immorald," he added.

Loose N. Willin, Immorald barely managing idiot, said she welcomes the change in staff, noting most men are good for only so long.

Lean OnMe (Or I'll Lean On You), current Immorald dick-tater, will be retained as a live-in house mother. When asked about her change in position, OnMe said, "Numbers don't match up like a nice fraternity boy. Statistics are only so interesting."

Malingering Stench, the current Immorald idiot, said she will not give up her crown to any one Geek affiliate less than Orygun's Decadent Immorald a Theta or Tri Delt. She pledged death before a GDI gets her post.

Stench said she will keep control of the Immorald at all costs.

Because the OD is a co-ed house (who are we trying to fool anyway?), it is represented by both the Interflatulence Council and the PanHellIfIKnowWhatIsGoingOn Council.

However, the vociferous social appetite of more than one OD member has caused embarrassing scenes — even before the Geek indoctrination into wanton ways.

"I guess some of us are born with it," Sewer said, referring to a daffodil-eating incident at Poppi's Swill House and a subsequent musical encounter with the Country Squires at the Vets Club. "Either you got it or you don't."

"I'm having so much fun I don't know how we are going to get the paper out now. Maybe Duane DungHeap and the CommonPotater staff will give me a hand," Sewer said.
