

ing was the controversial Athletic Department ballot measure. Lachkar and Mooney, running on the Students for a Progressive Agenda ticket, said they were in support of the Athletic Department, but could not support a $6.50 increase per student per term.

"It's too much of an increase too soon," Lachkar said.

"Athletics are worthy of incidental fees. But not all students are athletes and not all students attend the events," Mooney added.

Frichette concurred with the Lachkar/Mooney ticket, and stressed the best place for such a controversial issue is on the ballot.

Levinson said he supported the measure, but does not support raising incidental fees as a whole. He talked about combining the smaller foreign and minority groups into larger cultural unions as one way to decrease the amount of incidental fees paid.

Brooks has been a vocal supporter of the ballot measure, and she wants people to realize the state does not fund athletics. She would lobby actively for state funding if elected, she said.

The term "depoliticization" has been heard quite frequently during the election.

In depoliticizing the ASUO office, Cooper said she would be out speaking to students and "working to make sure inciden-

The question of Levinson and Ball's lack of experience also was brought up. "We have no political experience and we're proud of it," Levinson said, adding both he and Ball have managerial and business experience that would enable them to reach out and do the job.

CONCERNED STUDENTS FOR RESPONSIVE LEADERSHIP

The ASUO Executive must represent the view of all 17,000 students. A student government has its most profound effect on issues affecting higher education and campus concerns. These areas must be of primary importance. Because of a common concern for campus issues, we endorse the following candidates:
