

Getting involved in the University is important to me. As a member of the IFC, I would help promote campus diversity, while avoiding excessive and unreasonable increases, and being responsive to students' needs. While striving for better communication between the Incidental Fees Committee and the groups it funds, I would also seek improved student input into the decisions made by the IFC. My involvement will be your benefit, and I will represent the students of the University of Oregon to the best of my ability.

ARMANDO MORALES

My name is Armando Morales and I would like to represent you on Incidental Fee Committee. As I am an actual member of Incidental Fee Committee, I have had an opportunity to work within Incidental Fee system. In addition, I am a member and director of the Latin America folk group, Sandunga. We have performed throughout the west coast and locally in such festivals as Willamette Valley Folk Festival, the Country Fair, and the Eugene celebration. I am also the coordinator of KLCC's Ahora Si program, a Latin music and news community service program.

As a member of the Incidental Fee Committee, I will encourage program growth, and show sensitivity to the diverse groups and organizations on campus within a framework of fiscal responsibility. I will particularly encourage the development of cultural events which these groups propose, so that our community can experience the richness and diversity of international culture.

J.B. LEAHY

As a student you pay $61 each term in incidental fees to attend the University. This is an incredible tax and determining how much each group should receive is a process that requires careful scrutiny. I am running for a seat on the IFC to become part of this process. I believe that the 3 million plus dollars that accumulates from the incidental fee should be redistributed to serve the greatest number of students. The funds should provide a diverse mixture of programs, activities, cultures, sports, and events to our campus. The decision for this allocation should be made without political consideration. I have been active in Alpha Kappa Psi, the Professional Business Fraternity, for the past three years and have served as President, Social Chair and I am currently on the executive. The time that I have spent in A.K. Psi provides me with extensive experience in the budgeting process and fiscal responsibility.

I have been endorsed by CSRL. I promise to look at each funding request for what it brings to you. I hope that you will support me, J.B. Leahy for IFC, thank you.

DOUGLAS PYLE

The best representatives are activists, not bureaucrats! That is why SPA candidates, like myself, have extensive experience in campus and community organizations — working for worthwhile causes. Given the new, radical right-wing CSRL candidates this year, it is more important than every to vote SPA — to protect the rights of all groups, regardless of ideology, to exist equally without discrimination.

PYLE's positions on the issues:
 — I will fight to prevent any increase in the "incidental" activity fee.
 — Activity fees are paid by students, for students, and should remain in student control.
 — I support free speech, nonpartisan political/social activism, and the right of students to form organizations based on common interests.

— Affirmative action and non-discrimination must be more than a promise.

PYLE's experience:
 — Director: War Resistance Center
 — former Director: Arts Union (Portland State)
 — former Editor: Mid-Valley Link newspaper
 — former Media Coordinator: Eugene Free South Africa
 — former Coordinator: Students for Lesbian and Gay Rights (PSU)
 — Volunteer: Citizen Action for Lasting Security, CALS, and Committee in Solidarity with the Central American People
 — former fundraising staff person: Democratic party of Oregon
 Vote SPA. Vote Douglas Pyle, Incidental Fee Committee!

The students of this university will pay approximately three million dollars in incidental fees during the next school year. It is my belief that this money should be spent to directly benefit the students, and enhance the university experience by providing for the cultural diversity of this campus. The spending of these fees requires a sense of fiscal responsibility that I feel I can provide.

I have a unique background of participation in campus organizations that distinguishes me as a candidate that represents a diversity of views that have previously been overlooked. I am a fourth year architecture student and I have been a member of the U of O wrestling team since my enrollment at the university in the fall of '83. In addition, I am an Army R.O.T.C. academic scholarship winner, and a former Presidential Scholar.

I am endorsed by the C.S.R.L., a group which I believe represents the best interests of the students. Thank you for your support.

Students deserve fiscal responsibility in the allocation of their incidental fees. Students should not simply be utilized as an endless source of money whenever programs request additional resources. Every funded program should be carefully reviewed to assess the group's needs, ascertain their specific resources, and monitor the use of granted budgets. An increased emphasis needs to be placed on alternative sources of funding, including grants and fundraising. An IFC member should be viewed as an advisor to groups in order to better manage their budgets.

Politics should play no part in the operations of the IFC. Budgeting should be based on uniform criteria, applied to every group, in a fair and equitable manner. Funds need to be utilized to benefit students attending our campus, rather than to fund outside political issues.

I have the experience, knowledge, and openness to excel and persevere in the IFC. As a consultant in the private sector, I developed, proposed and administered million-dollar budgets. Currently a first year MBA student, I've gained five years of business education, which has also added to my budgeting background. Supported by Concerned Students for Responsive Leadership (CSRL), I believe in equal representation and an openness to new ideas.

TEDDY WALLACE

As a Native American student, I can bring a broad perspective to the IFC. It is important to ensure a variety of events on campus.

Experience: Paid staff Democratic Party since Presidential election 1984. Advocate for the poor, Washington County and Portland.

RON MUNION

We all know that the gravytrain must stop. Students want their incidental fees used wisely. Therefore, priorities must be set. The system can't be changed overnight, but the time to start is now.

On the Incidental Fee Committee this year, I have not been a rubber stamp. But I also understand that our programs are the backbone of our campus. Therefore, as a member of the IFC, I have fervently protected programs right to funding. This support extends not only to GALA, but also to the Masters of Business Administration Association and the Singapore Student Association. This is because without diversity of thought, we lose a major portion of our education. Adequate support or child care is a major concern of mine.

My experience as a current member of the Incidental Fee Committee, EMU Board of Directors, and my past experience as ASLCC Budget Chairman gives me the needed financial background to insure that our money will be used wisely. I am supported by CSRL.

My message is simple: We need to introduce sanity and logic to the budget process. That is why I am asking you to vote for Ron Munion for reelection to IFC

COLLIN D. FARRELL

Last year the Incidental Fees Committee allocated $3 million. In the past years Incidental Fees have continued to increase. The rise in spending must not continue. But despite the increases, some groups have not seen the benefits. Many groups have been neglected, yet they serve a large percentage of the students on our campus. These groups need to be represented fairly.

The Incidental Fees Committee needs to be "depoliticized". Each group should not be subjected to the individual biases and political preferences of the committee members. The benefits to the students as a whole should be the criteria for determining the allocation of Incidental Fees. IT'S YOUR MONEY!

In determining whether to fund a group and how, three factors must be considered. First, does the group add to the cultural enrichment and education of the student population (who are of course paying the fees)? Secondly, how large is the group's membership and what is its potential for growth? Finally, it should be determined as to whether the group can raise its own funds.

If elected, I would see to it that your money is allocated fairly, unbiasedly, and without regard to political motive. Vote for Collin Farrell.

STEVE HOYT

As incidental fees are comprised solely of money paid by students, the responsiveness of the Incidental Fee Committee to students is acute. Being that every student inputs money to the Incidental Fee fund, I feel that every student of this University is entitled to have his/her incidental fees used to benefit them in a productive, fair, and positive manner.

This bears the responsibility of Incidental Fee Committee members to be insightful, sensitive, and dedicated to the needs and values of all students. If elected, I would work to the best of my ability to see that this was carried out.

While my experience with budgets is limited, I feel that my work and involvement with various student groups and organizations qualifies me for this position by illustrating my concern for and work with the students of this University. I am currently the assistant to the ASUO president and am working with the ASUO on State Affairs and accessibility of University buildings to the physically limited. In the past I have worked with the ASUO Child Care Task Force, been a volunteer for the EMU Cultural Forum, and was Spring Rush Chairman of my fraternity (Phi Gamma Delta). Vote Hoyt.

ASPAC

JEFF MORGAN

Because of my commitment, my experience, and my desire to serve, I ask that you vote for me, Jeff Morgan, to be your representative to the Associated Students' Presidential Advisory Council.

ASPAC, President Olum's student advisory council, is one place where your vote truly counts. It's not merely student politics; it's the students' direct line to the University president and administration.

My three years' of student involvement makes me the best of the candidates. I've served two ASUO administrations, been appointed to numerous student/faculty committees, worked for both The Emerald and the campus radio station KWAX. I am also a member of the Student University Relations Council and have received a Century Award for my student leadership.

This record of involvement not only shows my dedication to the University, but more importantly gives me a perspective on student life that the other candidates cannot have. I have seen how the University functions. I have heard how students feel. I have recognized how non-traditional students need a stronger voice.

Students need an experienced, informed voice on ASPAC. I believe that I am the most qualified candidate to be that voice.

Please vote for Jeff Morgan for ASPAC. Thank you.

NICOLE LEWIS

With the formation of the President's Advisory Council, students now have the opportunity to express their views and concerns to the president. Students are now able to elect a representative to do this.

I am already involved on campus. I have been involved in Saferide and Impact Training. Currently I am involved as a Tribunal Prosecutor and as a member of Delta Delta Delta. I would like the opportunity to become even more involved in campus life and with other students. I am dedicated and hardworking and think I am qualified for this position.

As a student at the UO I am aware of the concerns of others attending the University. With this knowledge I will be able to present them to President Olum and find acceptable solutions.
