Linder family arrives

MATAGALPA, Nicaragua (AP) — Benjamin Linder, an American volunteer killed in an attack by U.S.-backed Contra rebels, was buried with honors Thursday in this provincial city among the people he was trying to help.

Linder, a 27-year-old mechanical engineer from Portland, and two Nicaraguan militiamen were killed Tuesday near the hamlet of La Camaleona in northern Nicaragua, where he worked as an unpaid volunteer in a rural electrification project.

"He believed that through work he could make life better for (the Nicaraguan) people and help strengthen democracy," Linder's father, David, said during the funeral ceremony.

State radio said the leftist Sandinista government had awarded the Order of Commander Jose Benito Escobar to the dead volunteer. It is the highest citation for workers and had never been given to a foreigner.

Reagan promises veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan promised Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone on Thursday he would veto legislation requiring trade retaliation against Japan, but he refused to lift sanctions already in place without evidence Tokyo has stopped unfair sales practices.

In a move that pleased U.S. officials, Nakasone told Reagan he had directed the Bank of Japan and the Finance Ministry to lower short-term interest rates.

Reagan and Nakasone met at the White House against the background of the sharpest trade friction between the two countries since World War II, fueled largely by America's huge trade deficit with Japan, which totaled $58.6 billion last year.

Marines had access

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine guards at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow were provided with combinations for all secure rooms and safes, making the penetration of sensitive areas much easier for KGB agents alleged to have prowled the building at night, intelligence sources said Thursday.

Rooms in which CIA and Defense Intelligence Agency operatives worked, as well as the communications vault, were closed at night by steel doors with combination locks, said one intelligence source, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

A State Department source also said that until 1983, a code expert was stationed in the communications vault 24 hours a day, but that after that, no one was assigned to the room between midnight and 6 a.m., another development which would make it easier for the KGB to penetrate the area.

Research bill approved

SALEM (AP) — A bill to prohibit state universities from participating in classified scientific research is headed for a vote in the Oregon House after undergoing minor surgery Thursday in committee.

The measure would direct the State Board of Higher Education to limit state universities to research projects that can be published.

The bill had been up for a vote in the House earlier this year but was shipped back to the Education Committee for minor rewording.

The measure's chief sponsor, Rep. Wayne Fawbush, D-Hood River, said the restrictions are already policy at both the University of Oregon and Oregon State University.

Fawbush said HB3224 would provide a guarantee that "academic institutions won't ever undermine the scientific process by researching but not publishing their findings."

The Education Committee approved the bill unanimously.

Weapons, drugs found

GRANTS PASS (AP) — Four people were arraigned Thursday on charges stemming from a raid on a Cave Junction house that turned up a large stockpile of weapons and a drug laboratory.

Laurence T. Carrier, 36, was arraigned in Josephine County District Court on one count each of manufacturing and possession of a controlled substance. Bail was set at $100,000.

Federal charges of possession of illegal machine guns against Carrier were under consideration by the U.S. attorney's office, said Josephine County Deputy District Attorney John Raviolo.

Three people were released following arraignment on misdemeanor counts of frequenting a place where drugs are kept and three others were to be arraigned on similar charges Friday, according to court records.

Doctors spend most

SALEM (AP) — The Oregon Medical Association was the top political spender among Oregon businesses and trade associations over the past two years, spending $330,408 during the two-year period, Oregon Fair Share said Thursday.

The consumer activist organization issued a report on the biggest business political spenders for 1985 and 1986.

The figures include lobbying expenses and political action committee donations to candidates' campaigns. The data were taken from reports filed with the state Ethics Commission and the secretary of state's office, Fair Share said.

Fair Share said 48 companies and trade groups spent more than $15,000 apiece during the period, with total spending of $4.3 million.
