Time for some baseball heckling

Welcome to a potpourri of sports tidbits...
BASEBALL: If the Portland Beavers keep losing, Seattle Mariners' owner George Argyros (soon to be the owner of the San Diego Padres) may just want to buy them. He'd then have the worst team in both the minors and the majors... Speaking of the hapless Beavers, the only reason their players continue to collide with each other is to get on the highlight films on the late-night news... The door is being unlocked, and the handle is being turned. Yes, if the Chicago Cubs win a few more games, society will be University), Bisons (Bucknell), Chippewas (Central Michigan), Fightin' Blue Hens (Delaware), Golden Flashes (Kent State), Thundering Herd (Marshall) and Leathernecks (Western Illinois)... If Sugar Ray Leonard fights again, we'll all know it's just for the money. He beat Hagler and has nothing left to prove... I'm beginning to miss the USFL. For me, spring will never be the same... Wouldn't it be funny if Oklahoma linebacker Brian Bosworth was picked by the New York Giants. He wouldn't have a prayer of starting... Allowing fans to vote for starters in the Major League Baseball All-Star game is ridiculous. Let's see the best, not the most popular... It's getting to be that people watch auto racing to see a crash just like they view hockey to see a fight... A recent change in the NBA lottery assures the team with the worst record, this year it's the Los Angeles Clippers, of picking no lower than fourth in the NBA draft. I still think they'd be better off in the CBA... A fellow in Rome, Ga. recently played nine holes of golf and scored a 43 — with a putter... Alabama basketball coach Wimp Sanderson on whether he's met sports agent Norby Walters, who has said he gives money to college athletes: "No, but I'd like to, just him and me, in a room by ourselves. One of us wouldn't come out." Sounds like Wimp is no wimp.

Best joke about sports this week goes to talk show host David Letterman. "Apparently, the highest-paid team in the NBA is the Los Angeles Lakers. But the Phoenix Suns have a higher street value."

desecrated once again by those annoying Cub fans who only come out of the closet to express their sentiments of loyalty when their team is at or near the top of the National League East... Teams to keep an eye on — the Los Angeles Dodgers (ugh); and the New York Mets (ugh!). On second thought, let's just hope both teams fade into their respective cellars... Don't count Boston out yet. The Yanks, Tigers, Brewers, Jays, Indians and Orioles could all declare Chapter 11. Hey, Texaco did it!

If I had to choose favorite college nicknames, they would be the following: Terriers (Boston

Taylor excluded from Pan-Am field

Oregon's Anthony Taylor was not included on the 12-man roster of the Pan American team which will compete for the United States this summer.

Guards on the squad include Kentucky sophomore Rex Chapman, Wyoming's Fennis Dembo, Keith Smart of Indiana, Jeff Lebo of North Carolina and UCLA's Jerome "Pooh" Richardson.

Forwards selected were former Oregon State player and current San Jose State star Ricky Berry, Danny Manning of Kansas, Pittsburg's Jerome Lane and Willie Anderson from Georgia.

Navy's David Robison, Pervis Ellison of Louisville and Indiana's Dean Garrett will play center.

Club Sports Roundup

In Oregon crew, the men's lightweight 4-rower and women's novice 4-rower captured first place at the Pacific Coast Championships in Sacramento, Calif., last weekend. The women's lightweight 4-rower grabbed second place, while the men's novice 8-rower settled for sixth.

The Oregon rugby club will round out its season with the annual alumni game on Saturday at 11 a.m. at South Bank Field.

Three members of the fencing club placed at the Beachcomber's Open in Astoria last weekend. Rodney Ray finished fifth and Andrew Berdine eighth in the men's electric foil. Also, Berdine and Owen Mikasa will represent the Ducks at the Sectional Championships in Vancouver, Wash., on Saturday.

"Bubba's," the Oregon women's soccer team, shut out Omega, 2-0, Monday night, moving its record to 6-3. The Ducks meet Springfield next Thursday at 6 p.m. at Ascot Park for their final match of the season.

The Oregon lacrosse club lost to undefeated Western Washington State University, 14-9, last weekend. The Ducks also dropped an overtime match to University of Washington, 12-11. They host Oregon State University for the last match of the season on Saturday.

Blue-chipper signed by Ducks

The Ducks have signed two-time Oregon state champion David Vidlak to a wrestling letter-of-intent.

Vidlak, who prepped at Hidden Valley High School in Grants Pass, was undefeated his last two years and was the national freestyle high school champion at the 106-pound weight limit.

"We're extremely pleased that Dan picked Oregon to continue his academic and athletic careers," said coach Ron Finley, who indicated Vidlak may have to redshirt to gain weight.

Vidlak is an honor student with plans of majoring in pre-medicine.
