Record stores detonate sound waves

"We like to think of ourselves as the music headquarters, or the campus source for music," says Face the Music owner Bob Lee.

University students, considering its wide range of selections — "wider than most stores," says Lee, who adds that his store's music is "clean, but not too sanitary."

Lee said his store carries all types of music, but specializes in soul, rhythm and blues, and dance music, with a large collection of 12" extended dance remixes.

"We also have some local groups," he said. "All they have to do is bring in their music and we'll sell it."

Face the Music offers tapes, records, and compact discs, including used compact discs with a general price range of $8.99 to $11.99.

The store is open 10 a.m. — 6:30 p.m. Monday — Friday, 10 — 5:30 Saturday and 10 — 4:30 Sundays. Face the Music is located at 886 E. 13th Ave., across from the University Bookstore.
