rhythm and blues musicians, said Taylor's bartender "Rooster" Gavin Fox.

Sometimes nationally known musicians, such as Robert Cray or Los Lobos, will jam at the bar when in town, but more frequently Taylor's features well known Oregon musicians, such as Paul DeLay, the Soulsations or Curtis Salgado.

Taylor's appeals to a more diverse, much older crowd than most campus bars. Fox said that older hippies, laborers and students are all just part of the bar's "mixed bag" audience.

"You don't get a mainstream crowd at Taylor's," Fox said.
