Do you think the Athletic Department is doing an adequate job with free student ticket distribution?

'I think that they are probably doing the best they can. It's a new program and it's hard for them to get it organized. I personally find it frustrating to not be able to get the tickets.'

— Lisa Kendall, junior, political science

'I think so because I got a free ticket, and I have never run into any seating problems.'

— Linn Phan, freshman, pre-business

'I really appreciate the U of O offering free tickets to students, and I think they are doing an adequate job making them available. Every time I've gone over to get one, there have been tickets available for me.'

— Cindy Brown, senior, elementary education

'I don't think it is being distributed equally because there are only 6,000 tickets and 18,000 students. Someone is going to be left out. Who knows if they really distributed 6,000 tickets? Nobody really checks.'

— Shemi Sabag, graduate student, bio-mechanics

'They should increase the number of tickets or plan something other than a first-come, first-serve basis.'

— Samir Mayas, junior, computer information sciences

'I've gone to every game and haven't had any problem getting tickets. I think they're doing a good job and it's a good program.'

— Brian McCool, political science

'I'm real pleased with it. I don't know what better way they can distribute them. I think it's as fair as they can get under the circumstances.'

— Sheramy Barry, post-graduate, American studies

'I think it's pretty fair. Everyone has an equal opportunity to get them and although they go pretty fast, it's not the Athletic Department's problem as far as how fast they go... It would be nice if they could increase the number of tickets.'

— Brian Young, senior, TCF
