from the current $39 to meet the $3.6 million bond sale.

"I think to reverse the priorities (of phases I and II) would provide the maximum benefit to the permit purchasers," Keith added.

In retaliation to comments surrounding the reversal of phases I and II, user group member and ASUO President Kasey Brooks cited the lack of information included in the study involving the relocation or replacement of the Alder Street tennis courts.

"I am opposed to making the Alder Street site the first priority because we have no cost figures for relocating the tennis courts and the buildings in the area," Brooks said.

In addition, Brooks said that revenue generated from the 15th Street site could be used to further subsidize construction in the other phases of the proposal.

The final two phases of the Avenue and Alder Street.

As final arguments and debate inverted the order of phases I and II, Brooks called for tabling the motion until the next meeting, so the costs of
