MEETINGS

The Eugene City Council Committee on Economic Diversification meets Wednesday at 7:30 a.m. in the Eugene Development Department of the Washburne Building, 72 W. Broadway St., to discuss fiscal year 1989's action plan and the Council Legislative Committee.

MISCELLANEOUS

A free Macintosh orientation occurs Wednesday from 2 to 4 p.m. in Computing Center Room 175. The orientation is available to all University students, faculty and staff, and is geared toward beginners.

Volunteer opportunities are available through the YMCA Voluntary Action Center.

- The Easter Seal Society of Oregon needs a puppeteer one day a week for two to three hours. The volunteer will learn scripts and use puppets to educate children about various disabilities and different cultures. Extensive training is provided.

- Mobility International USA, an agency providing international exchange programs for people with disabilities, needs a travel information volunteer to work three hours a week assisting with information and referral services. Volunteer provides members with travel information, maintains and updates files, answers mail and works on special projects. Training is provided.

For further information about these and other resume-building volunteer opportunities, contact a volunteer counselor at 686-9622. The center has volunteer positions in more than 100 agencies in the Eugene/Springfield area.

Deadline for submitting Et als to the Emerald front desk, EMU Suite 300, is noon the day before publication. Et als are run only once. Events with a donation or admission charge will not be considered. Events occurring nearest the publication date and campus events will be given priority.

ZENITH INNOVATES AGAIN — WITH THE NEW BATTERY-DRIVEN SUPERSPORT™ — TO TAKE YOUR BUSINESS BEYOND THE LIMITS.

Small, lightweight, flexible and economical. That's the beauty of the new SupersPort from Zenith Data Systems — today's leader in battery-operated portables.

ON-ROAD, OFF-ROAD FLEXIBILITY. The SupersPort's modular configuration easily adapts to your computing style. With a detachable battery for easier portability. An AC adapter/recharger that plugs into any outlet. MS-DOS® to run virtually all PC/XT compatible software. And 640K RAM — expandable to 1.64MB with EMS. Plus the SupersPort comes in your choice of dual 3.5" 720K floppy drives or 20MB hard disk models. For flexible desktop performance wherever you go.

BATTERY POWER TO GO THE DISTANCE. The new SupersPort even gives you hours of battery life for greater productivity on the road. Thanks to Zenith's comprehensive Intelligent Power Management — a system that lets you control how your battery power is consumed. So you won't waste valuable energy on components and peripherals not in use.

AS EASY TO READ AS IT IS TO CARRY. The SupersPort also features Zenith's renowned dazzling back-lit Supertwist LCD screen for crisp text and superior readability. And its CRT-size display is one-third larger than most competing portables for enhanced viewing. The screen even tilts back 180-degrees so it lies flat to accommodate a desktop monitor.

Students earn awards for human development work

The University's human development and performance college has named five students to receive honor awards, and 32 students were given awards for academic distinction. The awards recognize outstanding senior students from the school.

The honor awards recognize service to the college, community and profession as well as academic achievement. The academic distinction awards are given to seniors who maintain a cumulative grade point average above 3.5.

Four students received both awards. They were: B. Gayle Cain, a gerontology major from Drain; Jennifer Curtis, a school and community health major from Eugene; Rhia Paulson, a human services major from Eugene; and Kathleen Humphries, a leisure studies major from Bothell, Wash.

James E. Reed, a physical education major from Eugene, was the fifth student to receive an honor award.

Nine Eugene residents were among those receiving the academic distinction awards. They are: Lynda Barry, a human services major; Dawn Bredesen, a leisure studies and services major; Michele Caneen, a leisure studies and services major; Don Freeman, a leisure studies and services major; Karen Hoag, a human services major; Robin Leonard, a human services major; Lori McTavish, a leisure studies and services major; Marilyn Nichols, a human services major; and Carol Rucker, a human services major.

Eight students from elsewhere in Oregon were given the academic distinction award. They were: Lisa Carlson, a leisure studies and services major; Donetta Wood, a human services major; Linda Fifield, a human services major; Linda Meador, a gerontology major; Dolores Miller, a gerontology major; Carey Janzik, a physical education major; David J. Hunnicutt, a school and community health major.

Four students from Singapore earned academic distinction: Kiran Gosian, Tiam Kwee Jenny Lim, Cher Chay John Tan and Chong Tze Peter Tan. All are physical education majors.

Two Washingtonians and a Californian completed the list of academic distinction recipients: Sally Roe, a physical education major from Bellingham, Wash.; Kimberly Englund, a physical education major from Vancouver, Wash.; and Rose Connett, a physical education major from Arcata, Calif.

Correction

In the July 21 edition of the Oregon Daily Emerald, it was incorrectly reported that the deadline for submitting written arguments for and against a ballot measure allowing rezoning of land for recreation/natural resource use was Aug. 30.

The actual deadline is Sept. 30. The arguments may be used in the city's voter's pamphlet for the Nov. 8 general election.

The story also misspelled the name of Abe Farkas, the city's development director, and identified him as a member of the Riverfront Research Park Commission. Farkas and Dan Williams, University vice president for administration, advise the commission, but are not members.

The Emerald apologizes for any inconvenience or confusion that may have resulted from these errors.
