Defending champion Bruins team to beat in Series tournament

By Ashley Conklin
Emerald Sports Reporter

They're the defending national champions. They won the Pacific-10 Conference again this season. They were the top-ranked team in the nation in the final coaches poll.

It's no surprise then that UCLA heads into the College Softball World Series as the team to beat. The Bruins, 43-4, open the double-elimination tournament Wednesday at 6 p.m. at the Twin Creek Sports Complex in Sunnyvale, Calif. against South Carolina.

Listed below is a look at each team, in alphabetical order with the exception of Oregon (See Page 15).

Arizona (46-17):The Wildcats finished third in the Pac-10 and then won the Central Regional, defeating conference foe Arizona State in Tempe.

Arizona, ranked sixth in the final poll, is led by sophomore shortstop Julie Stander and junior third baseman Nicki Dennis.

Dennis hit .353 to pace the Wildcats in the regular season while leading the conference in home runs and runs batted in (RBI). Stander is considered one of the best defensive shortstops in the nation.

Cal Poly-Pomona (42-21):

Despite being ranked eighth in the final poll, the Broncos were not expected to be in Sunnyvale. However, Cal Poly-Pomona upset Big West rival Cal State-Fullerton to win the West Regional.

The Big West's third place team, the Broncos have two talented pitchers in Lauri Thompson (20-7, 67 consecutive scoreless innings) and Nicky Luce (19-11).

At the plate, all-conference catcher Denise Correa leads the way with a .279 batting average, followed by outfielder Nikki Busch with a .268 average and 25 RBI.

Fresno State (55-12):The third-ranked Bulldogs won the Big West Conference and have the most wins of any team in the tournament. Fresno State advanced to the Softball World Series by winning the At-Large Region over the Pac-10's fourth place team, California.

Should either UCLA or Oklahoma slip at all, the Bulldogs should be right there for the title, but face a tough opening game with Arizona.

Oklahoma State (44-4):The Big Eight champs bring the best record to Sunnyvale after losing out on a trip last year after tiny Adelphi College knocked
