Temporary plant director chosen

By Christopher Blair
Emerald Reporter

The University has hired an interim Physical Plant director to fill in for retiring Director Harold Babcock, who will leave the post in early June.

Buford "Buff" Roach, former vice president for Chevron Oil of Europe, Inc., began his duties at the plant Monday. The two will share director duties as Babcock ties up loose ends in the job he has held for 18 years.

Roach, 66, was hired as interim director by Dan Williams, University vice president for administration. Williams said he recruited Roach for the job, having become acquainted with him when the two worked on the preliminary studies of the proposed Riverfront Research Park.

Roach spent his freshman year at the University before transferring to and graduating from Oregon State University in 1948 with a degree in electrical engineering.

He went on to a 35-year career with Chevron, performing operational and management assignments in California, Mississippi and Brussels, Belgium before retiring in 1983.

Roach is active in the Eugene Junior Symphony Association, the Eugene Arts Foundation, the Fairmount Neighborhood Association, and the Kiwanis Club. He served on the Riverfront Research Park project from 1986 to 1987 as an assistant, coordinating staff and doing preliminary planning for private building projects.

"I have a great deal of respect for him, personally and professionally," Williams said. "He has a wealth of first-rate experience as an executive and has a great deal of technical experience."

Roach said it will be business as usual this summer until the University finds someone to fill the position permanently.

"My primary responsibility at this point is to understand what's here and how it works, and maintain continuity until a new director is found," Roach said.

As Roach performs his duties this summer, Williams said the University will be conducting a national search for a new Physical Plant director. Invitations for a search committee have been sent out. Williams said he will head the committee, which will have "about a dozen" members.

Williams said the University advertised nationally and received more than 100 applicants from around the country. The search committee will begin reviewing the applications in early June.

Williams announced the temporary filling of the post to Physical Plant employees in a May 18 memo to Physical Plant employees, which also announced that an outside management consultant will examine the plant's organizations and operating methods in early June.

The study follows an internal review in March about possible improprieties at the Physical Plant. Babcock announced his retirement in March after Williams disclosed Babcock had been cleared of the impropriety charges; however, Williams said some indications of questionable management decisions had been found.

1989-90 student senators elect officers at meeting

The 1989-90 Student Senate elected officers at its first meeting Thursday night.

Tiffany Weed, a junior psychology major, was chosen as chairwoman. Her primary concerns as a senator, she said, are lobbying for longer library hours and for increased campus safety.

In her written statement to the senate, Weed also said her goals for next year include standardizing course evaluations and establishing a permanent student position on the Institutional Animal Care and Use Committee.

The only contested election of the evening was for vice chairman, won by Mike Lee. A junior finance major, Lee also voiced his concern for longer library hours.

Tiffany Davidson, a junior rhetoric and communication major, was elected executive secretary; Dalene Lovie, a junior English major, was elected grievance/information director.

The public relations position will be filled by Kim Cooper, a freshman journalism/rhetoric and communication major, and Chris Simons, a junior biology major, is the new Committee on Committees assistant.
