Philadelphia Orchestra. West Side Story. The Duke Ellington Orchestra. Diane Schuur. Moscow Virtuosi Orchestra. Les Ballets Trockadero De Monte Carlo. The English String Orchestra. Philip Glass. The World Saxophone Quartet.

What do all the above have in common? They are just a few of the many performances or performers who will grace the stages of the Eugene Hult Center for Performing Arts this coming year.

The Hult Center shows for fall include:

Diane Schuur, a jazz vocalist, will perform Oct. 20 in Silva Concert Hall. On Nov. 9 to 10 The Best of Serious Fun will hit the Soreng Theatre.

The musical Me and My Girl will take to the Silva Concert Hall stage Oct. 5. On Oct. 7 Moscow Virtuosi Orchestra, with conductor and violinist Valdimir Spivakov, will perform in Silva Concert Hall. On Oct. 13, Philip Glass will take on Soreng Theatre.

If that all sounds too much for you, be forewarned. There's more. The Hult Center also works with several other organizations throughout the year to host operas, symphony orchestras and ballets.

Ballets such as Romeo and Juliet, Cinderella and The Nutcracker will take to the stage of Silva Concert Hall over the next few months.

Sponsoring many of the ballet performances at the Hult is the Eugene Ballet Company.

In addition, the company plans to close its season with the premiere of an original ballet based on a short story by internationally famed author Ken Kesey.

Romeo and Juliet will run Oct. 28 and 29 and The Nutcracker will make its usual Christmas run Dec. 21 through the 24. Both ballets will be in the Silva Concert Hall. Cinderella and the season closer will be held next year.

Two other arts companies have traditionally hosted cultural performances at the Hult. The Eugene Opera and Eugene Symphony Orchestra work year round to bring local audiences quality performances by both local and imported talents.

Eugene Opera will begin its season with Pa-
