University professor seeks legislative seat

By Stephanie Holland
Emerald Reporter

University business professor Lynn Kahle announced last week he will run against Rep. Larry Campbell (R-Eugene) for the seat in House District 43.

Kahle, a 39-year-old Democrat, teaches consumer behavior and said he is on leave of absence this year to learn more about public policy and to work on some writing projects.

Born and raised in Hillsboro, Kahle worked on Rep. Carl Hosticka's (D-Eugene) 1984 and 1986 campaigns and worked as a special assistant for Sen. Peg Jolin (D-Cottage Grove) during the last legislative session.

"I realize how important the decisions are that the Legislature makes and how one person really can make a big difference," Kahle said.

One of the issues Kahle said he is concerned with is the "welfare of the University."

"I would hope to work closely with Carl Hosticka in ex-

"My experience in human rights has helped me understand the concerns of several different groups and made me aware of those issues," Kahle said.

He said he is also concerned about worker's compensation and said more emphasis needs to be placed on workers' safety.

"Basically right now they have absolute chaos," he said.

plaining to the Legislature the needs of the University," Kahle said.

Kahle is on the board of directors of the Organization for Economic Initiatives and is the Democratic precinct committeeman for Precinct 413.

In addition, he is the secretary-treasurer-elect for the Society for Consumer Psychology and the head elder at Grace Lutheran Church.

He is also concerned about human rights. Kahle is president of the Commission on the Rights of the Aging and of the Human Rights Presidents' Council.

The Presidents' Council is comprised of the Commission on the Rights of the Aging and four other commissions on youth, women, minorities and people with disabilities.

Kahle also is a member of the Mayor's Task Force on Human Rights.

"The situation right now is something only an anarchist could love."

Kahle said his experience in working with human rights and consumer issues, and the knowledge he has gained from teaching students and conducting research, will help him when he gets to the Legislature.

In 1977, Kahle received a Ph.D. in social psychology from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. He completed two years of post-doctoral training in survey research from the University of Michigan.

He earned his master's degree in social sciences from Pacific Lutheran University and earned his bachelor's degree in psychology from Concordia College.

In addition to teaching at the University, Kahle has taught at the Universities of Nebraska, Michigan and North Carolina.
