

Duck women sweep Whitman 9-love

By Ashley Conklin
Emerald Sports Reporter

Don't be fooled by the ease with which the women's tennis team's dumped Whitman in a 9-0 victory Sunday, because Oregon was actually pressed in a pair of matches.

Although the Ducks won easily, coach Tom Greider was pleased with how his team performed. Greider compared the match to an earlier win against Idaho, the barometer of success he has used since that time to measure his squad.

"Today I thought we played our best tennis of the season, better than against Idaho," Greider said. "These are the type of matches that we have to remember when we get in a tight match so we know how to pull them out."

The Ducks' top player, Kumi Nagamoto, had a tough match with Christy Lindquist at No. 1 singles before coming out on top 6-4, 6-1.

"Kumi is continually pressed," Greider said, "but she handled a hard hitter with ease."

At No. 2 singles, Hilary Roberts crushed Stephanie Turner 6-2, 6-2 and Amber Goheen, at No. 3 singles, beat Kristin Turner 6-1, 6-3.

While Oregon's top three players rolled, the fourth, fifth and sixth players (Shelley Brandt, Margaret Fraleigh and Jackie DeFord), also won easily, something that Greider said is important if the Ducks are to compete with some of the better teams in the Pacific-10 Conference.

"You're always going to have tough matches at one, two and three," Greider said, "and you hope the four, five and six matches aren't as strong, but it's necessary to have depth there. That's how we build our recruiting."

"Your goal is that your No. 1 player can play evenly with your No. 6 player," he added.

Brandt and DeFord lost only one game at No. 4 and No. 6 singles, respectively. Brandt beat Jill Locke 6-0, 6-1 while DeFord topped Chelsea March 6-1, 6-0. Oregon's other singles player, Fraleigh, toppled Laura Senino 6-3, 6-2 in No. 5 singles.

The Ducks' top team of Goheen-Nagamoto turned back Turner-Turner 6-2, 6-3 after they pulled within one game at 4-3 in the second set.

Roberts and Brandt teamed up in No. 2 doubles to crush Lindquist-Locke 6-2, 6-1 and the No. 3 team of DeFord-Tracey Miller beat Senino-Marsh 6-0, 6-2.

Despite the blowout, Greider said it was an important match for the Ducks as they continue to gain experience.

"As a coach and teacher, one of the things I'm looking for is if people are learning things such as learning to close at the net," he said.

Against Portland State Friday, Greider switched things up, giving Nagamoto and Roberts the day off. His other top players moved up two notches and that gave Miller and Jennifer Tachibana a chance to play at No. 5 and No. 6 singles.

The Ducks beat the Vikings 8-1. Only Tachibana lost at No. 6 singles, to Kim Wait at 7-5, 3-6, 6-4.

Goheen beat Vicki Arena 6-3, 6-0 at No. 1 singles. Brandt had an even easier time at No. 2 singles, thrashing Shelley Smith 6-0, 6-0. Goheen and Brandt then teamed to dispose of Arena-Deeann Robirds by a 6-1, 6-2 score.

Fraleigh beat Theresa Delapaz 6-3, 6-4 at No. 3 singles. DeFord won at No. 4 singles over Michelle McCabe, 6-1, 6-0. Miller rounded out the singles action with a 6-4, 7-5 victory over Robirds.

In other doubles action, DeFord-Fraleigh topped Smith-Wait 6-4, 6-2 in No. 2 doubles. In No. 3 doubles, Miller-Tachibana beat Delapaz and Tracy Spencer 6-1, 6-1.
