Lewis and Clark dumps Ducks

Illness, injuries hamper squad

By Tracy Sumner
Emerald Sports Editor

The Oregon men's tennis team battled injuries, illness and a tough Lewis and Clark (Idaho) squad and came up short in a 5-1 loss Sunday in Eugene.

Lewis and Clark's Bob Uhlenkott took a tough 7-6, 4-6, 7-6 win over Ted Rubin in No. 2 singles to secure the win. With the match already decided, doubles matches were canceled.

Oregon coach Buzz Summers said Rubin's effort was a good one, but that Uhlenkott just did what he had to for the win.

"Uhlenkott played well and made the shots when he had to," Summers said. "Ted played well all the way until the end."

Rubin, Summers said, will continue to improve over the next few weeks as he battles back from illness that caused him to miss the team's trip to South Carolina.

"Ted's still trying to get back to where he was before he got sick," Summers said. "He's going to continue to get better as the season goes on."

Oregon's No. 2 man Ted Rubin dropped a tough match to a Lewis and Clark player as the Ducks lost 5-1 Sunday.

Oregon was without its No. 2 singles man, James Hazard. Hazard, a senior from Melbourne, Australia, was sidelined because of illness. Jon Weinberg, who lost to Rod Moreira, 6-2, 6-3, was playing at less than full strength because of an abdominal muscle injury that kept him out of last Thursday's match with Willamette.

"Not having our No. 2 man really hurt us," Summers said. "Jon Weinberg's still not 100 percent and that puts lots of pressure on our freshmen."

Oregon's last three singles positions were filled by freshmen Sunday, with Robert Atkin, Christian Oelke and Kevin Settlemyre all losing for the Ducks.

Oregon's only win of the match was at the No. 1 singles position, where Kevin Cory played what he called "some of my best tennis of the year" to hand Ashley Grant of Lewis and Clark a 6-4, 6-3 loss.

"That was one of my best matches in a long time," Cory said. "Playing like that felt good. I could have played all day like that."

The loss to Lewis and Clark was Oregon's first after five straight wins. Oregon is now 7-13 on the year with six matches remaining before the Pacific-10 Northern Division matches April 20-22.

The Ducks host Southern Oregon Wednesday and Lewis and Clark of Oregon Thursday. Both matches begin at 2:30 p.m. Summers said he will play mostly freshmen against Southern Oregon to give them experience and to give some of his players some rest.
