Saturday Market returns, begins twenty-first season

Perhaps the surest local sign that winter has ended is the return of Saturday Market to the downtown Park Blocks at 8th Avenue and Oak Street.

The assortment of local craft vendors, international food booths, vaudeville and musical entertainment will begin its twenty-first season Saturday.

Saturday Market has long served as an "incubator" for small, emerging businesses, as well as local hand crafters and artisans.

Opening day performances begin at 10 a.m. with the upbeat contemporary music of Portland's Bop Girl Goes Calypso. At 11, the Market's performance for children will be songs and stories by Clair Coiner.

At 12 noon, Sandunga will perform music from the Andes featuring traditional South American instruments. The University Vocal Jazz Ensemble will sing at 1:30.

Market goers can dance to the marimba beat of the Eugene band Shumba.

The market will close at 5 p.m. and will continue weekly, rain or shine, through late November.
