KIRK BAILEY
SHEILA STICKEL

Dear Students,
The Coming year at the University of Oregon presents many challenges and opportunities. We face issues concerning funding of higher education, health insurance, child care, campus safety, and the diversity of our University. The ASUO, as the representative of the students, seeks to promote student interests and needs, through its programs, activities, and services. As current members of the ASUO Executive, we have addressed these issues and learned the power and influence students can have on any issue. In addition, our involvement in groups such as Club Sports, the Pre Law Society, Housing and various University task forces has provided a clear understanding of the needs of the students. This experience has made us sensitive to student interests and provided the tools to direct the influence of the ASUO for the benefit of all students.

We believe the students deserve leaders who are strong, confident and knowledgeable, with the students' best interests at heart. The Bailey/Stickel team proposes to achieve this ideal through a balanced approach, dedicated to promoting campus unity through tolerance and respect. Our efforts are aimed at working for the students to insure their rights as free paying members of the ASUO. Our campaign for the students will not end on election day but continue throughout the coming year.

Above all else we believe that student involvement is crucial to effective student government. We urge everyone to approach us with their questions and concerns, and start their involvement by voting on April 19 & 20.
