

campus leadership experience to the offices of President and Vice-President. We have been active participants on: Incidental Fee Committee, EMU Board of Directors, A.S.P.A.C., Counseling Center Advisory Board, President Bookstore Board of Directors and ASUO Tag Coordinator

Successful leadership is absolutely crucial, but at the same time it must be a direct result of the democratic processes. This is an issue that has been brought to light with the health insurance issue. The health insurance issue is a perfect example of how some problems cannot be solved by simply forming a committee. Maples/Cushman understand this, and we will actively seek out student's concerns, and most importantly, let your voices be heard—not only on issues like this but many others as well.

We will have an open door policy but this must further be explained. Our open door policy does not only entail us sitting back in the ASUO office and waiting for you to come to us. It also, most importantly, requires us as your elected officials to seek out your open doors.

~~Examine Our Quality Assurance Commitment~~

ASPAC

DESCRIPTION: The Associated Students Presidential Advisory Council (ASPAC) discusses and advises the UO President on matters of student concern. ASPAC meets monthly with the UO President. It includes representatives from the ASUO Executive, Student Senate, EMU Board, IFC, RHGC, ASUO programs, and two students elected for 1 year terms from the student body at large. These positions are not stipended.

KILLJAN A. ANDERSON

No statement received

ANDRE' C. LAGRANDE

I am seeking a seat on the Presidential Advisory Committee because the University of Oregon, like all college campuses, has problems to overcome and issues to address. I do not think these problems will "fix themselves," nor am I content to let the burden of correcting them rest on someone else's shoulders. I have always had a strong interest in student government, and now I have the opportunity to translate this interest into action by serving you, the student body.

My desire to get involved in student issues, coupled with a belief in hard work makes me a viable choice for the Council. In addition, I enjoy working with people and would very much like the chance to effect changes in the University for the betterment of the students at large. Someone once told me, "If you aren't part of the solution, you're part of the problem." By serving on the Presidential Advisory Council, I hope to take this advice to heart.

TOM OBERHUE

Communication between the University administration and the student body is an issue of considerable importance. The University must be informed of what the student's issue and concerns. If elected to an ASPAC seat I will work hard to ensure that the communication link between the administration and the student body is strong. My experience as Interfraternity Council President has helped give me an understanding of how to interact with the administration, carry through on issues of concern, and be accountable to a constituency. I have a very sincere concern for the well being of our campus and the people on this campus. I am very eager to serve the student body of the University of Oregon and would appreciate your vote. If you would like to talk about any specific concerns and would be more than willing to do so with you, I can be reached at 683-9582. My greatest concern is doing the best job possible to ensure the student's concerns reach the administration. I would bring experience, enthusiasm, and sincere concern to the position of ASPAC if elected. Thank you for your support.

MARK ROSENCRANTZ

I desire to be elected as a member of the Associated Students Presidents Advisory Council because I believe that I am the most qualified candidate. I consider myself the most qualified candidate because I best represent the all encompassing concerns of the entire student body regardless of individual affiliations.

I have always felt that groups representing the greatest number of members have always been able to voice their concerns and see them implemented. However, it is my belief that of the 18,000 students on this campus the majority are not associated nor given a voice in the direction and ultimate decisions that are made on their behalf. It is my intent to represent those who do not feel as though they been represented or who feel as though they have no voice or have not been given the opportunity to express their concerns.

I run for this position as an independent thinker desiring to represent, investigate, challenge, and implement direction and policy which is beneficial to all who enter this great university. If you are looking for a voice who will echo your concerns regardless of your affiliations, I believe you will find me to be the most qualified.

CHRISTINE L. SAITO

Being active in the University community is a beginning, but many times even the most involved and active students feels as if the concerns of the people they represent are not being heard. I have found in my three years at the University that it is difficult at times being a part of this large student body where numbers, rather than names, take precedence. I represent many different groups of students in my positions as President of the Tri Delta sorority, Panhellenic Vice President, as well as my position as the ASUO Museum of Art Student Committee Representative. I believe that this representation can be carried on one step further by my election to ASPAC. In addition, I am also a member of three honor societies and have much experience in working with others through the many conferences and committees I have been a part of. I would like to be considered as your choice for student representation on the ASPAC board.

BETHANY STRASBURG

The students have a right to be heard, whether their subjects are of concern, or of approval, regarding the University. Through the Presidential Advisory Committee, I would like to continue to be a liaison, and discuss students' issues with President Brand.

I have been a student representative on ASPAC for the last year, and feel I can serve the students best. I also am Vice President of the Presidential Scholarship Association, and on the Board of Directors of Student Projects Inc. I want to continue to be involved, and believe