

"It was a clean race," she said. "That's the most important thing. We said from the be-just as there were from other groups." The first order of business for help them hire a staff.

"Kirk and I meet next week to come up with a hiring committee," Stickel said. "We committed ourselves during the campaign to bringing in some members of different student groups and ethnic organizations to help us put our staff together."

"We plan to have individuals from different student groups so we can make sure that we've got a diverse staff when we take office on May 25," Bailey said.

ginning, if we're going to lose, we're going to lose because that's what the students want. The students wanted Sheila and Kirk, and so be it."

Election results surprised Cushman and Maples. Cushman said, "But we congratulate Sheila and Kirk," she said. "We wish them the best of luck, we support them and we hope that if ever there's anything they need ... we would love to be there for them."

Although they were endorsed by many student groups, Bailey and Stickel said they were concerned when they didn't get the endorsement of the University's fraternities and sororities.

"We were initially disappointed," Stickel said. "We thought that would have clinched it. But the feedback we got from our greek friends was 'We're behind you,' or 'Our house is behind you,' and by Friday afternoon, we were feeling pretty good."

"We went after all groups equally hard," Bailey said. "The (Greek Endorsement Committee) endorsed Steve and Diane, but there were many greeks out there pulling for us,

Bailey and Stickel will be to put together a committee to
