Oregon hosts ASU, travels to meet OSU

With a little cooperation from the weatherman, the Oregon women's softball team will host Pac-10 rival Arizona State in a double-header this Saturday before traveling to Corvallis for a twin bill with Oregon State Sunday. Both openers are set for 1 p.m.

The Sun Devils, 37-27 overall and 5-7 in the Pac-10, received some votes for the NCAA Top 20 poll last week and moved into the poll this week at 12th. Oregon, with its double-header loss to Arizona two weeks ago, dropped from 10th to 18th in the latest poll.

The Ducks and ASU split a twin bill Feb. 12 with the Sun Devils taking a 2-0 win in the first game. Oregon came back for a 3-0 win for the split.

Oregon State, 6-20 and 0-12, have struggled under second-year coach Vicki Dugan. Two earlier meetings scheduled between the Ducks and Beavers were rained out, making this the first Civil War meeting of the year. Oregon swept the Beavers 6-0 last season.

Oregon's scheduled double header last weekend here against No. 2 UCLA was rained out with make-up dates of May 11-12 scheduled.

distance medley relay Friday. Klein will lead off with an 800 run, followed by Hutson in the 400, Holmen in the 1,200, and Wilson in the 1,600. Wilson and Holmen will also compete in the 1,500 while Hutson and Klein will race in the 800 Saturday.

"The national exposure for Oregon is valuable," said Heinonen, who himself placed second at the relays in the six-mile run for the University of Minnesota in 1967. "It may help to own the road with recruiting. It also allows athletes to get away from the Hayward Field womb, and will help them compete in big meets down the road."

As for the Invitational back in Eugene, Heinonen sees the meet as a needed break from the rigors of dual scoring meets. Rosie Williams, Oregon's premiere sprinter, will take the opportunity to nurse a sore hamstring she injured in the Pepsi Team Invitational two weeks ago.

For others, the meet offers a chance to improve on times and compete against some great competition.

"Our athletes need to stand at the starting line and see new people and different uniforms alongside," Heinonen said. "There are no other Pac-10 schools at the event. It's great competition for every athlete on our team."

Stephanie Wessell will compete in the 3,000 for the Ducks. Heinonen believes this will be the junior's best chance to improve her time and possibly qualify for the NCAAs.

Stephanie Smith, who threw the discus a personal best 163-1 last Saturday against California, is currently among the top dozen discus throwers in the college ranks, but needs to improve to secure an NCAA bid, Heinonen said.

Kamala Kohlmeier, who joins Blair in the heptathlon, hopes to qualify for the Pac-10s in the long jump as well as drop her time in the 100 hurdles to the NCAA standard.
