Track team seeks NCAA qualifiers

Team has eight so far

If history does indeed repeat itself, the Oregon men's track team could strike gold Saturday.

Oregon will be seeking to add to its list of eight automatic qualifiers for the NCAA meet in the Oregon Twilight Meet at Hayward Field beginning at 5:30 p.m.

"Historically we have gained most of our (NCAA) qualifiers in the last third or half of the season," Oregon coach Bill Dellinger said. "The latter part of the season is usually when we get people qualified and hopefully that will be the case again."

The Ducks list of automatic NCAA qualifiers includes steeplechasers Danny Lopez and Rick Mestler, Brad Hudson, Peter Fonseca and Terrence Mahon in the 10,000 meters, Scott McGee in the hammer, Art Skipper in the javelin and Pedro daSilva in the decathlon.

Brian Wright looks to qualify for the NCAA 400-meter hurdles again this year. Wright needs to run a 50.75 to make the automatic standard.

HOW FAR WILL YOUR DEGREE TAKE YOU?

Work, work, work. That's all you've been doing for years! You've studied all night, sat through a zillion-and-one lectures, passed your last pop-quiz, and taken your final final. Congratulations! It's graduation!

Now it's time to see how far your degree can take you. But first, why not take your degree somewhere you've always promised yourself you'd go "after graduation."

New York, San Diego, Cancun, or Paris. Whether you're flying south of the border or across the ocean, start your summer travel at the Eugene Airport.

Many fares are the same as Portland. And now, parking costs are less.

Let your degree be your passport to summer travel. Call your travel agent for reservations today. You've earned it!
