

University Day to help campus appearance

By Catherine Hawley

University Day — a day devoted to uniting students, faculty and staff and improving the physical appearance of campus — is set to take place Thursday, beginning with opening ceremonies in Memorial Quad at noon.

Success of Thursday's activities depends on participants' willingness to split from the groups they are representing and divide themselves among the four different teams that will be tackling different tasks on campus, said coordinators Doug Untalan and Brian Sandy.

"We want people to break from their groups and meet people they normally wouldn't have contact with," Untalan said.

"It's kind of like arena registration," Sandy said. "You show up with your buddies, but once you get there you go stand in different lines."

Check-in for participants will begin at 10 a.m. at a booth in Memorial Quad, north of the library. Participants will get a handout including a map and a schedule of events. The first 850 people to check in will get a University Day painter's cap that will also serve as an admission ticket to the ice cream social and Blubino's concert that will follow clean-up activities.

Opening ceremonies will take place in Memorial Quad from noon to 12:30 p.m. Vice Provost Gerry Moseley and ASUO officers Andy Clark and Kirk Bailey will speak, and a blue atlas cedar — a gift from this year's senior class — will be planted to replace the tree blown down near Lawrence Hall this winter.

The ice cream social will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. on the EMU East Lawn. The Blubinos will play in the Ballroom at 7. Both events are free for those who are participate in University Day.

ALL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS...

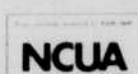

ARE NOT CREATED EQUAL

If you believe that all financial institutions are the same, perhaps you have not looked into your Credit Union. At U-Lane-O, business is not conducted as usual. We offer a unique approach to financial services. As a cooperative, members have equal vote and say in the management of the Credit Union. The result is an affordable and responsible way of providing financial services.

While financial institutions are not created equal, we happen to believe that all members are. Come visit U-Lane-O and let us show you the Credit Union way of doing business.

Serving U of O students and employees.
