

GOODWILL

Miller added that he would like to be able to provide the people in the Homeless Employment program with some of the same services that are offered to people in Goodwill's job training program, but Goodwill does not have the funding to do so.

"We would like to offer more services like job placement and sociological counseling," Miller said. He added that the other services are needed because it can be a big adjustment for homeless people just to be at work everyday by 8 a.m.

"It can also be difficult for people who have been their own bosses for years to take orders from someone else," he said.

Funding for the program comes from Goodwill's regular payroll operating expenses. That budget comes from the sale of clothing and other donated goods and from Goodwill's wood products shop.

"There is not a lot of funding for this (program)," McLaughlin said. "We had a mailing recently and some of the public was generous and sent in donations and that helped a lot."

Miller said the employment program was designed to help meet the needs of particular individuals who fall through the cracks. Homeless people have trouble getting plugged into the help organizations, he added.

"If you have no address you can't get welfare, you're not eligible for food stamps and you can't get an I.D. or a driver's license," Miller added.

"This program helps the problem but it does not solve it," McLaughlin said. "Housing in Eugene is still real expensive."

Expanding your choice of power.

Announcing the Macintosh IIx.

Now you have more ways to exercise your power of choice. Because we just expanded your choice of powerful Macintosh® computers. Introducing the Macintosh IIx. At 40 megahertz, it's the fastest Macintosh ever. Its amazing speed makes every Macintosh application work more quickly and efficiently. Which makes productivity soar to new levels.

What's more, its remarkable power and enhanced responsiveness open the door to an entire new world of sophisticated applications. Like CAD, CAE, or real-time animation. And with six NuBus™ slots, you have plenty of room for expansion.

Of course, all modular Macintosh computer systems are designed to grow along with your needs—from the flexible Macintosh IIx, to the versatile Macintosh IIc, to the mighty Macintosh IIci. So you can start with the level of power you need now. And add extra memory, peripherals, and communications cards as you need them.

However, one thing comes standard with every Macintosh: the legendary Macintosh ease of use. Just point and click, and you'll take full advantage of thousands of Macintosh applications. That all work in the same, graphically intuitive way.

Exercise your power of choice today. Stop by and ask for a demonstration. Special pricing for U of O students, faculty and staff.
