GARY OLDMAN DENNIS HOPPER
In the 1950's he came home a Korean War hero, but he couldn't fit in and he couldn't forget. So they sent him to a mental institution. Instead of treatment, he got neglect. Instead of care, he got brutality. Instead of giving in, he fought back. And he became a hero for the second time.

EMPLOYERS ARE TALKING ABOUT US.

Here is what just one business leader had to say about civilian career opportunities for Army alumni:

“Military experience provides many benefits for... graduates that ultimately makes them worthwhile candidates for industry. I encourage employers to seriously consider and to employ these young people as we do at Honeywell.”

Dr. James J. Renier
Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Honeywell

Today, more than ever before, employers are looking for the skills and personal qualities brought to the marketplace by Army-trained individuals.

So, let the Army help you put power in your resumé. For more information, see your local Army Recruiter today.
