Fullback Ngalu Kelemeni ran for 78 yards and two touchdowns against Utah State Saturday as the Ducks now prepare for a tough road game at Washington.

After Utah State win, Ducks ready for UW

By Robert Weber Emerald Sports Reporter

To the casual observer, Oregon's 52-7 thrashing of Utah State was just another victory, but the win meant much more to the Ducks.

After a huge win last weekend over highly-ranked Brigham Young, the Ducks forced themselves to concentrate on lowly Utah State and avoided the temptation of looking ahead to their showdown with Washington this Saturday.

"I'm very pleased with the play of our team," Oregon Coach Rich Brooks said.

"We might not have been as up for this game as we were for BYU," Duck defensive end

Matt LaBounty said, "but we were definitely not looking ahead."

The Ducks recovered a fumble on the opening kickoff and never looked back on their way to racking up 508 yards of total offense and scoring more than 50 points for the second time this season.

In addition to avoiding a let-down, the Ducks survived the weekend with only one serious injury. Besides a knee injury to freshman tailback Howard Blackwell and a few bumps and bruises, the Ducks escaped the weekend unscathed.

"I think this was a great game in the sense that we
