one will be a barn-burner.

The Trojans bring talented hitters Megan McCallister and Lonise Norfleet, who have hitting percentages of .219 and .251, respectively. Norfleet had a career-high 31 kills last weekend against Cal, and McCallister averages 3.0 digs per game. Setter Sue Peters is third in the Pac-10 in assists per game (11.78) and set a school record with 30 assists against Cal last weekend.

"McCallister and Norfleet are both tall and powerful attackers," Gregory said. "And Peters is a good player."

UCLA (19-1, 11-0) brings a potent attack and a 16-match winning streak to Oregon this weekend. The Bruins were forced to five games by Stanford last weekend, but in the process recorded 128 kills — 115 of those were by the foursome of Natalie Williams, Jenny Evans, Marissa Hatchet, and Samantha Shaver. All four players set career records in kills and the Bruins set five school records during the match.

Ice skaters to compete at LCI

A group of ice skating youngsters coached by three University students and one alum appear in their first in-house competition Sunday morning at Lane County Ice.

"This finally gives the kids a chance to show what they have learned," said 1990 University graduate Liz Folger. "It's a real team experience."

Sunday's 7 a.m. to noon show is open and free to the public.

Folger, the assistant program director at LCI, coaches the group of 13-and-under kids with three Oregon students — juniors Cindy Bopp and Sarah Goldfeder and freshman Denise Philips.

Most of the skaters began their instruction in January, and to be at the level of competition they are now at is excellent, Folger said.
