

Employees of Backstage Dancewear and Theatrical Supplies show off the variety of costumes that can be made with their store's wares.

Chuck Leach, co-owner of the Family Fun Shop in Eugene, models one of his store's many masks and outfits.

Halloween: time for playing dress-up

Finding the perfect Halloween costume has always been a challenge, and often the lack of a costume will keep many people from venturing out Halloween night. With all the great parties, music and costume contests happening around town, it's worth it to take a couple of hours to search through the stores for "just the right" costume.

Eugene and Springfield are both filled with second-hand and vintage clothing stores where even the most discriminating of buyers on the smallest of budgets can find what they're looking for. From top hats to tails, flappers to flashers, these stores let you use your imagination and create the costume of your choice. For people who have more money and less time to spend on a costume there are stores which both rent and sell costumes. If you want to be a monster, a famous person, a zombie or a fairy tale character these stores will have what you're looking for. Many of them also sell stage make-up including "blood packets," fake teeth, scar kits and wigs.

The following is a list of some of the second-hand and vintage clothing and costume stores in the Eugene/Springfield area.
