Prizes for UO undergraduate and graduate students:

Humanities Center Essay Prizes

1991 Theme: Art/Censorship/Obscenity

The University of Oregon Humanities Center announces the annual essay prizes for UO undergraduates and graduate students. All students are invited to submit an original essay or other piece of work on the annual theme. The Humanities Center expects to award one prize for the best essay by an undergraduate and one prize for the best essay by a graduate student. The prizes each will provide $250.00, and the awards will be announced in the University Spring Awards Ceremony program and the Humanities Center Newsletter. In addition, the Humanities Center will assist prize recipients who want to pursue publication of their essays.

Further information about the annual theme, and guidelines and a required cover sheet for submissions are available now in the Humanities Center; interested students should pick up this information as soon as possible. The deadline for the 1991 Humanities Center Essay Prizes is 11 January 1991. Final decisions will be announced by 25 March 1991.

from Exile" by Keogh and "Afternoon Landscapes" by Peterson. The exhibits will run through Nov. 30. An opening reception will take place from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the gallery, and the public is welcome to attend.

SUNDAY, NOV. 4

"Contact: Photojournalism Since Vietnam", a critically acclaimed photography exhibition, will open with a reception in the University's Museum of Art from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. A talk and slide presentation given by Contact photographer Frank Fournier will precede the reception at 2 p.m. in Room 180 PLC. The exhibit itself will run through the month of December.

"Selected Watercolors by Llona Boaz", a one-person art exhibit, will open at the Lane County Historical Museum, 740 W. 13th Ave. The show will run through Dec. 16, and admission into the museum is $1 adults, $.75 seniors and $.50 under 18.

MONDAY, NOV. 5

"Photography and the Environment", an exhibit sponsored by the Society for Photographic Excellence, will open in the LaVerne Krause Gallery on the University campus. The exhibit will run through Nov. 16 and will feature an exhibit entitled "Water in the West Project," as well as the individual works of Robert Dawson and Peter Goin.

Frank Fournier, a Contact Press Images photographer,
