'90s LIFESTYLES

COMEDY

rant portion of The Black Angus.

"The show is done upstairs in a bar setting," Winnett said, including that the shows are done for crowds of people 21 and older. "We have full round seating by candlelight too. It's a real lighthearted, nice atmosphere."

Tonight The Black Angus will introduce something new. They will open the microphone for five minute amateur stints and award prizes at the end of the night.

"We wanted to try something different, something new," Winnett said. All interested funny people can sign up by calling Magic 94 at 484-9494.

Across town, located inside Kowloon's Restaurant, Scandals Night Club makes its own donation of comedy, twice weekly.

Scandals opens its comic stage every Thursday and Friday night from 9-11 p.m. There is a $1 cover charge and no one under 21 is admitted.

"The comedians are funny and they involve the crowd," Chan said. "They all have their own style and they judge what the audience will like."

Before and after each show, Scandals plays music to liven up the crowd's spirits. Also, after each show, the club offers drink specials.

So, if it's a night of laughs you're looking for, take your pick.

HAIR

"Red didn't use to be like that. Everybody wanted to be a blonde. It might be because in advertising today, red is a really popular color."

A change of hair color needn't be only for those with a daring streak. "If someone is making a drastic hair color change, we now have color that lasts for only four to six weeks," Wold said. "And if they want just a subtle change in color, I usually do color weaves."

Moving away from trend, one can always be daring and request a head-turning style.

But for the most part, both stylists agree that the really exotic haircuts are diminishing. "People on campus are not wild enough," Stallings said.

These days, however, the story doesn't end when the haircut is over. It's at that point that you face the "gook" rack, the rack loaded to the hilt with gels and greasers and spritzers and sprays.

"What you buy depends on what you need," Wold said. For volume, try mousse. For control, gel works best. For definition, a new product called pomade will do the trick.
