is the big-play man on defense with 127 tackles, four sacks and three interceptions. Junior cornerback Selwyn Jones is the secondary leader with five interceptions.

The secondary has been suspect at times, giving up big games to Brigham Young's Ty Detmer in a 52-9 loss and Arizona State's Paul Justin in a 31-20 setback.

But Brooks said a lot of the yardage came because teams couldn't run the ball against the Rams and were forced to put it in the air.

"Detmer threw the ball on everybody and Arizona State was a healthy and good football team when they played," Brooks said. "Teams had to throw the ball out of necessity because they couldn't run it."

"I think those (pass defense) stats are schematic a little because they're pretty good up front," he said.

While the Ducks will be making their second straight bowl appearance, the Rams are in a bowl game for only the second time in school history. The only other appearance was a 21-20 loss to Occidental College in the 1948 Raisin Bowl.

A bowl bid would have seemed unlikely two years ago for Colorado State after a 1-11 season in 1987 and a 1-10 campaign in 1988.

But Coach Earle Bruce came on board for the 1989 season and turned the program around from the start.

Last season, the Rams were 5-5-1 and Bruce was named the WAC coach of the year.

This season, Colorado State was able to take the next step.

After starting the year 4-3, the Rams won three straight, including a 17-8 win at home in Fort Collins, Colo. over previously undefeated Wyoming. That win left the Rams 6-3 and secured them a second-place finish in the WAC.

Colorado State closed out the year with two wins in its last three games, including a comeback win at Hawaii, a place where BYU later lost.
