placement workers. Local 3035 was decertified. Less than 50 of the 304 union workers who walked off the job returned to Nicolai.

In addition to his role in the Nicolai strike, Gilbert also helped start the Eugene/Springfield Solidarity Network and the Labor/Environmental Solidarity Network of the Pacific Northwest. He said he has also helped win support from the AFL-CIO for displaced timber workers in Oregon.

A self proclaimed "community labor organizer" since 1975, Gilbert serves as a business representative for the Teamsters union, and has spent years speaking and organizing support for a variety of environmental and labor issues.

"These kinds of issues, like Morgan-Nicolai, effect our entire community very strongly," he said. "This is basically corporate harassment for financial benefit."

For Gilbert, the trial will be another chance for the public to stand up against corporate interests that conflict with those of the community.

"When this trial is over, we're going to be stronger," he said. "The more they try to fight this, the more people will wake up to what's going on."

Gilbert said he believes the public and the University community are behind him.

'(Pasquini's) destroyed the livelihoods of so many families. We don't think people like that can harm the community and then disappear into it.'

-Dennis Gilbert

"I've received nothing but support from staff and students on campus throughout this thing," he said. "It's O.K. no matter how it turns out. As far as I've been involved it's been a real pleasure.

RULES

may contact the "measles nurse" at the Student Health Center by calling 346-2764, he said.

Another new administrative rule, titled the Student-Faculty Committee on Grievances, was established, which amends an existing rule, OAR 571-03-006.

The new rule states all members of the University community, students and faculty, will be able to take their complaints or grievances to the committee.

"The previous rule was unclear," Muriel Jackson said. "Students may use grievance rules as well as faculty. Also, now the grievance panel can say 'it's not in our jurisdiction but you can use this approach."

The grievance panel, appointed by the president of the University, consists of four faculty members and four students.

Students may only select one grievance procedure under the new rule, Muriel Jackson said. The grievance committee will not hear appeals from students living in University Housing because they are expected to use the housing grievance process.

Proposed amendments to existing administrative rules on fines which would have increased six fees and authorized five new ones — all related to the use of bicycles, roller skates and skateboards on campus — have been withdrawn. If the amendments had gone through fines would have climbed from the existing $5-to-$10 range to $10-$35 range.

"I think I understand the rationale behind it (the proposed amendments) but I don't think a $35 fine would deter people," said Carey Drayton, Director of Public Safety. "Instead it would make you more upset. The point is the safety of students not on bicycles, not to generate revenue. It's not funny to see people dodge out of the way, it's sad," he said.
